Join us for this very special event where Rabia will share her experiences as a criminal and human rights lawyer, former terrorism and war crimes prosecutor, international humanitarian, and hostage survivor.

Rabia has an international reputation as a powerful, transformative and inspiration speaker. Her work in human rights and community aid in the Middle East, South America, the United Kingdom and Australia, has earned her a number of awards — a Queen’s Commendation for work in Iraq, she was Runner-Up Australian Woman of the Year UK, a finalist in the Australian Business Woman of the Year, and in 2016 was a State finalist in the Australian of the Year Awards.

Rabia is also a Director of the International Foundation for Non-Violence.

In 2015, Rabia was nominated for the Woman Lawyer of the Year Award and presented at the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women in New York. As nominee for the Professional Speakers Association of Australia (PSA) Keynote Speaker of the Year Award, Rabia was selected to headline the 2016 PSA National Congress.

She is also a best selling author with her memoir, “Equal Justice”, soon to be the subject of a feature film.

Leading with professionalism, integrity, ethics and compassion, Rabia speaks four languages and is committed to peace, gender equality, inclusion and education. This is evidenced in her philanthropic work and dedication to inspiring others to find their voice and embrace their capacity to create ripples of change.

Rabia is mother to triplet boys, her biggest and most rewarding challenge yet.

To book go to Trybooking.

Bookings close Friday 10 March (walk-ins will not be accepted).

For more information contact Jackie Stacey on 9323 1323 or jstacey@mercedes.wa.edu.au